I am also admitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit.

3. On behalf of myself and Michael A. Scaturro, inventors of the System and Method for Effecting a Real-time Payment for an Item Won on an Electronic Auction of the above-identified patent application, I have conducted a comprehensive search of the prior art and have good knowledge of the pertinent prior art.
4. After review of the prior art, in my opinion, the above-identified patent application is allowable and will be granted patent protection.
5. Upon carefully considering and rigidly comparing the original claims and subsequently filed claims of the System and Method for Effecting a Real-time Payment for an Item Won on an Electronic Auction of the present application and eBay's Checkout system and method and PayPal's Winning Bidder Notification system and method (i.e., the infringing systems and methods) described on eBay's and PayPal's websites, www.ebay.com and www.paypal.com, respectively, in my opinion, several of the claims are unquestionably infringed. Accordingly, there is at least one method currently in public use which actually infringes several of the claims of the present application.
6. I believe that the present application should be made special pursuant to 37 CFR §1.102 - Advancement of Examination in order to allow us, the inventors, the opportunity to quickly seek proper redress.

I further declare that all statements made herein of my own knowledge are true and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true; and further that these statements were made with the knowledge that willful false statements and the like so made are punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, under Section 1001 of title 18 of the United States Code, and that such willful false statements may jeopardize the validity of this application or document or any registration resulting therefrom.

Respectfully submitted,

George Likourezos
